Beasts, Beings & Monsters

1: Classifying Beasts

Throughout the centuries that wizardkind has studied the magical and mundane creatures of the world, there have been many different attempts to classify them into some kind of coherent taxonomy. Of these, two different systems have become considered the conventional method of classifying beings of all kinds - though of course the exact boundaries remains a matter of intense debate.

The debate has never been fully settled, confused even further by the introduction of a third system by the Ministry of Magic. These three systems of classification are each useful for determining different aspects of a beast, so are all presented here. These three classification systems are:

- The Mind: The level of sapience and self-awareness possessed by the creature
- The Type: A grouping based on morphological similarities and common points of origin.
- The Threat: A classification based on how dangerous the creature is and the threat it poses to the wizarding world.

Minds

The MIND possessed by a being determines how they think, behave and perceive the world.

Sapient

SAPIENTS are those creatures with consciousness, and intrinsic awareness of the self. Alongside this (usually) comes intelligence, language and society. All HUMANOIDS are considered SAPIENTS, though not all SAPIENTS are HUMANOIDS.

For political reasons, the word BEINGS is often used to describe SAPIENT creatures, with BEASTS reserved for NON-SAPIENT creatures. However this is considered a very politically charged term, and SAPIENTS such as Centaurs and the Merpeople object to sharing this category with, for example, the hags, and hence are often classified as beasts, despite their evidently sapient nature.

SAPIENT creatures are often able to use magic, and are capable of adapting and formulating complex tactics and plans. When controlling a SAPIENT creature and deciding how they would act, the GM should bear this in mind, and allow them to strategise, coordinate and use the environment and items within it to their advantage.

Non-sapient

NON-SAPIENT creatures are those which, whilst possessing a (mostly) recognisable brain, containing recognisable thoughts, do not possess a true consciousness.

This should not be confused with a lack of intelligence: some NON-SAPIENT creatures have analytical and problem-solving skills which far outstrip a human. However, their lack of consciousness generally means that they lack the ability to reason and make conscious decisions - they instead rely purely on their more animalistic instincts.

Whilst generally considered to lie outside the axis of 'good' and 'evil', due to their intrinsic lack of morality and ethics, some NON-SAPIENT creatures can be incredibly caring, whilst others are vicious. When a NON-SAPIENT being is described as 'good' or 'evil', it should therefore be understood in these more primal terms.

Ineffable

A creature which possesses an INEFFABLE mind has a consciousness that is beyond the realm of the humanoid mind to conceive. The very classification of sapience or not is entirely irrelevant to their being. Spirits, and abominations are generally considered 'ineffable', as are the most powerful celestials.

The term UNLIVING is also used to apply to beings which have an INEFFABLE mind, due to the popular image that such creatures are not truly 'alive' in the sense that we would consider them.

INEFFABLE creatures often originate from extraplanar dimensions, or were created by ancient and primal magics. They are therefore often susceptible to CELESTIAL attacks, which uses alien energy to strip away at whatever constitutes a soul for these creatures.

Types

The TYPE of a creature denotes how creatures are related to each other, and gives a hint at their intrinsic nature. Creatures which share a TYPE often have many characteristics in common, both visually and in terms of the magic and power that they wield.

Though often closely linked, many creatures of the same TYPE have a different kind of MIND.

ABOMINATION: An ABOMINATION is an incomprehensibly alien creature from the depths of the ELDRITCH DOMAINS, or even the VOID BEYOND. Primal, extraplanar beings, even attempting to comprehend the existence of such creatures is enough to break the minds of weaker individuals.

BEAST: A BEAST is a (generally) NON-SAPIENT creature of magical or mundane nature, which forms a natural part of the life cycle in their environment. Almost all non-magical creatures are classified as BEASTS, as are many of the most common magical creatures.

CELESTIAL: CELESTIALS are natives of some of the more distant higher planes, such as the heavenly ELYSIUM, or the awful TARTARUS. ANGELS, DEVILS and other beings form the bulk of the CELESTIALS, normally possessing incredible power they have, throughout history, been mistaken for servants of the Gods and sometimes even for gods in their own right.

CONSTRUCT: A CONSTRUCT is an artificially created being. Usually constructed from inorganic materials such as metal, stone or clay and animated using powerful magic or technological means. Though not considered alive, some rare constructs do contain a SAPIENT mind.

DEMON: DEMONS are malevolent magical creatures, often possessing an intrinsic affinity for the DARK ARTS, and a thirst for human flesh. Demons can take many forms, and can be found across the multiverse. Some demons, like elementals, harbour an affinity for a certain aspect of the universe, others serve powerful beings, and some demons rise to power in their own right and crown themselves DEMON PRINCES. Over the centuries, most of the truly horrifying demons have been banished from the mortal realm, leaving behind only minor evils such as the Grindylow or the Kappa. Sometimes, however, a Dark Witch or Wizard reaches through the barriers between worlds and pulls one of the more abhorrent powers into this world.

DRACONID: A dragon or dragon-like creature would be classified as a DRACONID. Usually characterised by an enormous reptilian form and affinity for elemental flame, and often possessing both incredible physical and magical power, any member of the Draconid family should be treated with fear and respect, the True Dragons most of all.

ELEMENTAL: ELEMENTALS are creatures which embody one of the classical elements: fire, air, water, or earth (as well as many others). Most hail from one of the ELEMENTAL PLANES, though many magical creatures native to the Mortal Plane are considered Elementals, such as the Ashwinder Snake, or the Frost Salamander.

FLORA: Strictly speaking, FLORA is a catchall term for all plant life. In this context, however, it includes a range of magical plants, imbued with a degree of ambulation, movement or other means of interacting with the outside world.

GIGANTOID: The GIGANTOIDS are a family of oversized human-esque creatures. Though large in frame, they are often incredibly dim-witted and slow. Trolls, ogres and giants form the core of the GIGANTOID family.

HUMANOID: The group of beings generally referred to as people, the HUMANOID groups comprises of all the human subspecies - both wizarding and muggle - as well as the semi-human creatures such as Centaurs, Merpeople, Goblins and Veela. Half-giants often find themselves in the humanoid category, whilst their full-giant kin are considered GIGANTOIDS.

IMP: The IMPS are vaguely humanoid creatures, though besides the Elves, they mostly possess only limited intellect. An IMP is immediately distinguished from even the shortest dwarf by their diminutive stature (rarely reaching more than 2 feet in height), and their innate magic which seems to operate on entirely different rules to that used by most humanoids. Elves, hobgoblins and fairies are the most prominent member of the IMP family.

MONSTER: Many beings classified as MONSTERS could feasibly be considered BEASTS, in the strictest sense of the word. However, whilst a BEAST can live in harmony inside its ecological niche (even if that necessitates aggression and special abilities), a MONSTER is nothing but a disruptive and lethal influence, and often form the centre of dangerous myths and legends. MONSTERS are almost universally destructive, vicious and incredibly dangerous to face.

PHANTASM: A PHANTASM is a non-corporeal or ghostly being, often associated with the souls of departed individuals, and manifestations of primal forces in the mortal plane.

sprite: SPRITES are creatures which straddle worlds, often existing as much in the Astral Realm as they do in the mortal realm. Sometimes corporeal, and sometimes ghostly, the SPRITES are united in their overarching goodness and fondness for living beings. Often considered by muggles to be guardian spirits, the Sprites often choose an area or a domain to protect, and their rage when their protection is violated can be potent.

UNDEAD: The UNDEAD are profane creations, the mortal remains of a once-living creature reanimated by powerful necromantic magic, or possessed by an evil spirit. The Walking Corpses, as well as Vampires, fall into this category.

Rating

The Department of Magical Beasts, an important part of the Ministry of Magic, maintains a classification scheme to determine the threat posed by individual magical creatures, labelling creatures between 0 and VII. A creature with a low rating can be dealt with easily, whilst a rating of V or above is an immediate cause for concern.

Category	Description
0	Utterly harmless, incapable of inflicting harm
I	"Boring", capable of inflicting only tiny injuries
II	Mostly harmless, commonly domesticated
III	Poses only minimal danger to a capable individual
IV	A group of competent individuals can handle, though an individual would face serious harm.
V	Requires specialist knowledge, or a group of highly trained individuals to defeat
VI	Known Wizard-Killer, impossible to control or train. Requires a large group of exceptionally trained warriors to defeat
VII	Lethal, poses a viable extinction-level threat to population centres if left unchecked. Few-to-no examples in recorded history of wizards successfully defeating them.

In this section a number of different creatures are presented for the GM's use in building encounters. These creatures come with a set of basic canonical background information, as well as a 'statblock', which contains the necessary statistics for these creatures to perform checks, and ultimately engage in combat and other character interactions.

Beast Abilities

Whilst all BEASTS share the same 9 base ASPECTS as player characters, and many of the same ABILITIES. However for streamlining reasons, the number of ABILITIES each individual beast has is more restricted than a player character: if an ABILITY is not mentioned in the provided statblock, you may assume it has a value of ◊◊◊◊◊◊◊◊.

Though they have far fewer proficiencies, Beasts do have access to all of the same ABILITIES as the player characters - though actions such as IMBUE and CRAFT are unlikely to come up except in the most unusual of circumstances!

In addition to the 30 base ABILITIES, some beasts have additional abilities determined by their non-human and, in some cases, magical, physiology:

Ability	Description
CLIMB	Many beings have the ability to climb trees, and adhere to solid surfaces. A non-zero rating grants a being an inherent climb speed - the higher the rating, the faster they can climb.
COMMAND	Some creatures command their lessers and may order them to do their bidding - a higher rating indicates the level of control they have over their forces.
ELUSION	Elusion is the natural camouflaging ability of a being - morphing into the background, changing colour and even turning invisible.
FLIGHT	A creature with the flying ability may defy gravity, either with wings, or innate magical levitation. A higher rating means faster flight and more elaborate manoeuvres.
REGENERATION	This ability allows a creature to heal themselves rapidly as their physical form regenerates.
INHUMAN SENSES	Many creatures have senses beyond those that humans have: the ability to sense tremors in the ground, see in the dark, as well as more arcane abilities such as the ability to detect magic.
SHAPECHANGE	A creature with this ability may alter their shape and form - a higher rating means more drastic changes to their appearance.
SPELLCASTING	A replacement for individual AFFINITIES. A creature with this ability can innately cast magic using this statistic.
SWIMMING	Aquatic creatures have a natural affinity for moving within the water - a high SWIMMING shows an ability to move quickly and navigate in 3D.
TUNNELLING	Whilst we are most familiar with creatures which walk on land, or soar above it, some rare creatures make a living beneath it. A high TUNNEL ability allows a being to move smoothly through seemingly solid earth and rock.

Movement

Some of these abilities - notably CLIMB, FLIGHT, SWIMMING and TUNNELLING - grant creatures additional means of traversing around an environment, beyond the usual walking and running that humans are used to.

It can generally be assumed that a zero-rating in this field means that a given mode of transport is not possible. This should, of course, be taken with a hint of salt - few creatures with a zero SPEED rating are physically unable to walk, and equally, a mighty ARCHANGEL is not going to hesitate to dive into a pool, despite not having a SWIMMING rating. However, a NOGTAIL is not suddenly going to be able to fly, no matter how slowly.

If a beast is using an alternative means of transportation, their rating for that means supercedes the normal rules about movement - if a HIPPOGRIFF is currently in flight, all checks which might normally rely on SPEED are instead made using FLIGHT.

The calculations used to determine a creature's movement speed by a given vector is as follows:

Type	Speed
WALKING	3 + SPEED Rating
FLYING	4 × FLIGHT Rating
CLIMBING	0.5 × CLIMB Rating
SWIMMING	0.5 × SWIM Rating
TUNNELING	0.25 × TUNNELING Rating

A creature may use up to two different types of movement in a given turn, but the maximum movement distance for each mode of transport is capped at half the usual value. For instance, if a beast with a 6m walking speed and a 10m flight speed were to both walk and fly in a single turn, it could walk no more than 3m and fly no more than 5m. Using only 1m of flight does not impact the amount of walking that could be performed.

Some creatures do not follow this rule - most of those are those with a SPEED rating of 0, but who have a walking speed less than 3m. These are merely particularly slow creatures. Some others, however, have a walking speed greater than their SPEED might suggest. This is usually the case with particularly large creatures such as GIANTS, whose long strides grant them rapid movement, but not the nimbleness and quick reflexes that a high rating on a SPEED check would imply.

ACROMANTULA PATRIARCH

MoM Rating: VI (Sapient Monstrosity)

If it is rare for a HATCHLING to survive to adulthood, it is even rarer for an ACROMANTULA to grow old, and gain the mantle of the PATRIARCH.

As the ACROMANTULA never stop growing, by the time they reach 40 or 50 years old, they have reached truly gargantuan sizes, with legspans up to 10m, with an exoskeleton that is so thick that almost nothing can penetrate it.

Though they cut a truly terrifying figure, their bodies have become decrepit with age, and they do not retain the nimbleness of their younger forms, instead relying on their formidable intellect and their ability to command legions of their brood to protect them.

ANGELS

Angels are powerful, beautiful Celestial creatures, denizens of Elysium, one of the Higher Planes, though they can be found throughout the multiverse. Often perceived as powerful agents of Deities, servants of benevolent gods, it is actually unknown who or what provides these powerful creatures with their deeper purpose.

Benevolent Fury: Almost universally pure of heart and intrinsically ethical and good, Angels are representative of everything full of light and life in the universe. Angels will never compromise their core beliefs. They are not, however, pacifists. Angels are great and powerful warriors, and will strike down their enemies in the name of protecting those who cannot protect themselves.

Angelic Host: The Angelic society is known as the Angelic Host, a powerful seemingly omniscient society which dwells almost entirely in the Silver City found at the centre of Elysium. This society is highly structured and hierarchical, with angels being created to fill specific niches within each echelon of society. Each Angel derives their powers from their position within the angelic hierarchy, with the highest tiers wielding terrifying amounts of power.

Holy Crusades: Angels only leave the Silver City on two conditions, the most common of which is being directed on a holy quest by one of their superiors. Most Angels met outside of Elysium are conducting such a quest. The difficulty of the quest depends on the ranking of the angel in question: a cherubim might be sent out to conduct a blessing, or deliver a message, whilst a quest which calls for an Archangel to be sent would be a truly dire universe-ending scenario.

Fallen Angel: The other condition under which an Angel is refused entry into the Silver City is if they have fallen. Though Angels will never compromise their core beliefs, and are almost inherently good in nature it is possible for them to fall victim to their own pride and hubris. If this happens, an angel may act against the wishes of the Host, or inadvertently perform some great act of evil.

If this happens, the Host will disavow them, and cast them out. Without the purpose granted to them by the rigid structure of Angelic society, many such fallen angels go entirely mad. Others sink into a deep, vengeful fury and declare war on the Host, whilst others are believed to undergo a transformation, becoming powerful demonic creatures.

Immortal Spirit: As a celestial being, an angel is incredibly resilient and requires neither food, drink, air or sleep (though they may enjoy the Planar Blink: A Throne may expend 5 FORTITUDE points to instantly travel to any known point on any other plane of existence. This bypasses any magical blocks put in place to prevent transport.

It is incredibly rare to see a Throne outside of the SILVER CITY, for they are not messengers or mighty warriors – but instead scholars, guardians of knowledge and secrets.

Their physical form is hard for a mortal being to comprehend – the closest anyone has ever really got is wheels within wheels, covered in eyes, and even that image was enough to break the mind of the human who witnessed it. They are certainly the least humanoid of the ANGELS, and their intellect is equally alien.

The Thrones have an almost perfect recollection of every event in history, and collect any and all knowledge they can in their vast libraries, in the hope that it will one day be useful in the fight against the ever-present evils. The rare occasions that they venture out of their libraries, it is to find some arcane secret – either to help their own cause, or to prevent it from falling into the wrong hands.

ARCHANGEL

MoM Rating: VII (Ineffable Celestial)

An Archangel is one of the most powerful entities in existence. The mightiest, wisest and fiercest warriors in the ANGELIC HOST, they serve as generals in the eternal war against ABOMINATIONS and DEMONS.

The existence of the Archangels has seeped into the cultural knowledge of almost every society on every plane – seen as servants of deities, protectors of light and life – and are revered and loved by all.

The MINISTRY has only been able to gather evidence of a handful of individual ARCHANGELS, though given the ferocity of wars in which they fight, this has lead many to speculate that their names are handed down as titles, to continue an unbroken line of Archangels throughout the history of the Host.

APPARITIONS

Apparitions are ghostly creatures - spirits and ghosts which defy the laws of life and death, and yet continue to roam the mortal realms.

Incorporeal Form: Almost all apparitions are merely imprints, shadows lying between the astral realm and the mortal plane, and as such are totally incapable of interacting with the physical realm. They can pass through solid objects at will, move with blatant disregard for the force of gravity, as well as being immune to all normal forms of attack.

Unknowable Purpose: It is not understood what drives apparitions of any kind to remain behind on the mortal plain. Some speculate that all apparitions are manifestations of lost souls, bound to the Earth through their need to find closure, or complete some important task. Others speculate that they are glitches in the fabric of reality, whose motives even they themselves do not understand.

Unkillable: It is impossible to kill an apparition, though it is possible to banish them for a time. The only known way to permanently deal with an apparition is to plunge one into the Void, or help them find the closure they need, or otherwise convince them to relinquish their hold on the mortal realm.

POLTERGEIST

MoM Rating: II (Ineffable Phantasm)

A poltergeist is an amortal, indestructable spirit of chaos and mischief. They appear as a short, childlike figure dressed in a motley jester's garb, with glowing orange eyes, which twinkle with mischief.

Brought into existence by a critical mass of humans, trickery and mischief, poltergeists haunt the specific place which they are tied to.

Unusually out of apparitions and other spiritual creatures, poltergeists are able to take on physical form and cast primitive forms of magic - which they use to wreak chaos and play pranks on unsuspecting humans.

A manifestation of fear and primal terror, the shapeshifting boggart peers into the minds of humans, and takes the form of their worst nightmare.

A boggart can never harm you, though they can be difficult to contain. The accepted trick is to transfigure them to look stupid, prompting a fit of laughter – which is fatal to a boggart.

ARACHNID

The arachnids are a family of giant spider found throughout the wizarding world. Most members of this species are suspected to have been formed from mundane species that were experimented upon by witches and wizards throughout history, though others are known to occur in freak mutations.

Whatever the mechanism for bringing them into this world, many have since escaped into the wild, to wreak havoc on muggles and wizardkind alike - some spinning their webs to ensnare the unwary, others prowling and hunting directly for their prey.

Great Size: The magical arachnids are much larger than their non-magical compatriots. Though smaller than acromantula, some species can reach legspans of up to one metre.

Keen Sight: In addition to their web-enhanced senses, the 8 compound eyes of arachnids allow them to see in incredible detail, even in dim light

Webspinners: As members of the spider family, all arachnids have an affinity for spinning webs, and using them to sense and then ensnare their prey.

GREAT WIDOW

MoM Rating: III (Non-sapient Beast)

Magical experimentation on a Black Widow produced this grossly oversized specimen, and gave it the ability to spit acid.

MoM Rating: III (Non-sapient Beast)

The name of the Howling Tick is misleading, as it is neither a tick, and nor does it howl. Instead the name comes from its tendency to suck blood from its victims, and the howls of pain that result. The Howling Tick has the magical ability to grow in size when it feeds, however they must continually gorge in order to maintain their size, or they quickly shrink back.

True to their name, they also spray acidic juices on their prey, to aid in their eventual digestion.

BEAST DEMON

Demons prowled the earth for many millenia before the dawn of human civilization, and come in many thousands of shapes and forms. The BEAST DEMONS are those which share – at least to a cursory glance – a visual similarity with a non-magical creature, as well as a more bestial intelligence, and reliance on primal instinct above tactics and reasoned thought.

Typically using their more unassuming forms to get close to their prey, they unleash their demonic fury and hunger upon their prey, leaving no trace of their meal.

NOGTAIL

MoM Rating: IV (Ineffable Demon)

One of the lesser demons still native to the mortal realm, the Nogtail resembles a stunted piglet, albeit with a thick stubby tail and elongated legs.

Nogtails are known to sneak into farms to suckle from an ordinary pig, bringing with them a terrible, cursed blight which stuck to the land. Capable of reaching immense speeds on land, catching a Nogtail is therefore impossible – the only way to drive one off for good is to hunt them down and chase it away with a pure-white dog.

The nogtail poses a threat not only because of the blight which follows it, but because of their voracious appetite, wicked teeth and willingness to take a bite out of any fool who gets too close to them.

KISHI

MoM Rating: V (Ineffable Demon)

Native to the southern part of Africa, this demonic entity takes the form of a beautifully sleek and well-kept hyena, marred only by the addition of a humanoid head protruding from the back of its normal snouted face.

This human face speaks honeyed words in a calming, almost hypnotic voice and is known to lure children out into the darkness, where the hyena mouth uses its wickedly long teeth and near-unbreakable grip to maul any who cross its path.

BOWTRUCKLE

Bowtruckles are a species of hand-sized, insect-eating humanoids which reside inside trees. Bowtruckles prefer to make their home in trees with wand-quality wood (or perhaps, it is the presence of a Bowtruckle which makes a tree wand-grade), and a single tree can host up to 5 generations of the same bowtruckle clan.

Normally peacable and shy creatures, they become territorial and violent when their home tree is threatened.

The classification of the intelligence of the BOWTRUCKLES has been somewhat controversial – they are evidently intelligent and able to communicate with and understand humans, however they do not seem to possess the ability for abstract thinking or tool usage that most consider necessary for a SAPIENT classification.

Camouflaged: Bowtruckles blend in perfectly with their trees, when they wish to pass unnoticed, they appear as nothing more than a set of leafy twigs. It is only by catching them in motion that they can be easily spotted.

Natural Climbers: Living their entire life in trees, bowtruckles are natural climbers, and can move across near-sheer vertical surfaces as easily as they walk.

Long Fingers: Nominally evolved to help dig insects out of the bark of a tree, the long spindly fingers of a bowtruckle can be used to perform very delicate tasks, such as picking a lock, or used offensively to poke out the eyes of those who threaten their treetop homes.

SOFTWOOD BOWTRUCKLE

MoM Rating: II (Non-sapient Imp)

The Softwood Bowtruckle, as the name may suggest, reside within softwood trees, typically pine, cedars, firs, yews and redwoods, and prefer a cooler or damper environment than their hardwood cousins. They appear as green-skinned elven creatures with leaves growing from random parts of their body, and are often said to have 'kind faces'.

The Softwood branch of the family are incredibly flexible, able to contort themselves through even the smallest of gaps as they hunt for insects, though this comes at the expense of a natural armour.

The softwood is the most friendly of the bowtruckle species, often forming friendships with humans and other animals which they pass down through generations. However, they have also shown a tendency to become emotional and sulk when their 'friend' gives them insufficient attention.

HARDWOOD BOWTRUCKLE

MoM Rating: III (Non-sapient Imp)

Residing within mighty hardwood trees such as oaks, ironwoods, mahoganies and willows, the Hardwoods are much hardier and more resilient than their softwood brethren.

The bodies of the hardwood bowtruckles seem to be composed almost entirely from bark, wood and twigs intertwined to form the body. Small sproutings of green may be seen from their body during spring (from which their young grow), but otherwise they are without discernable features.

This hardness has evolved because life for the hardwoods is much tougher and more violent than the softwoods. Whilst softwoods are known to form friendships and only attack when provoked, the hardwoods are more likely to flee or lash out at unwanted visitors.

GRAPHORN

MoM Rating: IV (Non-sapient Beast)

The Graphorn is found in mountainous European regions. Large and greyish purple with a humped back, the Graphorn has a number of very long, sharp and golden horns running across its back, walks on large, four-thumbed feet, and has an extremely aggressive nature. Their mouth is surrounded by a number of prehensile tendrils, which they use both for manipulating food, and for sensing their surroundings. Mountain trolls can occasionally be seen mounted on Graphorns, though the latter do not seem to take kindly to attempts to tame them and it is more common to see a troll covered in Graphorn scars. Powdered Graphorn horn is used in many potions, though it is immensely expensive owing to the difficulty in collecting it. Graphorn hide is even tougher than a dragon's and repels most spells.

It is said that once a Re'em has started moving, no force, physical or magical can stop them or change their path unless they choose to – researchers have found that diving out of the way of the path of a Re'em on the warpath is often the most sensible option.

CHIMERA

MoM Rating: VII (Non-sapient Monstrosity)

One of the most dangerous, and notorious, artificial magical creatures in all of history, the CHIMERA truly is a terrifying beast. Said to have been created by the mad witch ECHIDNA, the 'mother of monsters', the Chimera escaped into the world and began their reign of terror.

Possessing the heads of both a lion and a goat, with a further snake-head protruding from its serpentine tail – all of which have the ability to act independently, the chimera would be terrifying enough with this alone. Alas, ECHIDNA was not yet done – the goat's head has the ability to breath gouts of fire and summon bolts of lightning, whilst the lion's head can release a howl which pierces deep into the minds of those unfortunate enough to be surrounding it.

Only one wizard is on record as having successfully defeating a chimera – and they were killed by the sheer effort required. Humanity is lucky that the chimera are also incredibly individualistic and violent towards their own kind, only mating once a century – else chimera would probably be the dominant species on this planet.

CLOAKWRAITHS

A tattered black cloak might not seem the most terrifying piece of attire that a being could don, though those who have encountered the CLOAKWRAITHS might say differently.

No-one really knows where they come from, though ancient legends say that they are the spirits of those too evil to pass to the other side. Some WRAITHS appear as gaunt almost-humanoids beneath their eponymous shrouds, whilst others seem to have no corporeal form. Some believe that they are in fact a single type of being at various points in their lifecycle, whilst others believe them to be individual manifestations of primal human fears.

What they all have in common (besides the ominous cloak), is an evil aura of terror, and a hunger for human souls.

LETHIFOLD

MoM Rating: IV (Ineffable Abomination)

Also known as a LIVING SHROUD, a Lethifold is a carnivorous and highly dangerous magical creature.

Unlike other CLOAKWRAITHS, a Lethifold appears to have no physical form, appearing instead as a gently floating and flapping shroud of black fabric, which crawls out of the shadows to envelop and then devour their victim.

When a Lethifold devours a victim, the only remaining sign of their once-physical existence is a slight thickening of the lethifold, and a handful of thread-like tendrils extending from beneath its body, otherwise the lethifold leaves no trace.

SHUAGH

MoM Rating: VI (Ineffable Abomination)

The Shuagh are a form of mounted CLOAKWRAITH, never seen without their sickly and skeletal horses, which produce no sound as they gallop over devastated wasteland.

Seemingly unique amongst the other CLOAKWRAITHS, the Shuagh use tools and weapons to achieve their goals: the formenting of war, chaos and unbridled fury. The very presence of a Shuagh is enough to anger even the most passive of individuals, and so the arrival of a Shuagh was often seen as the precursor to bloodshed and infighting.

CREATIONS

CREATIONS are a class of magical creature which have, either through accident or design, been created by artificial means. This is usually the result of (highly illegal) experimental breeding, though direct magical manipulation of a species has been known to occur.

Almost every beginner TRANSMUTATION student has, at some point, been responsible for the creation of a pseudo-CREATION, when they accidentally morphed their pet rat into a rat-goblet, or some other ungodly accident. What sets the creatures below apart from these short-lived accidents is that CREATIONS are a viable species in their own right, with the ability to reproduce and continue their species' existence, and they have often escaped from their creators' control, and have made their home somewhere in the magical world.

HIDEBEHIND

MoM Rating: IV (Sapient Sprite)

The Hidebehind was accidentally created when illegal trader Phineas Fletcher attempted to import a trafficked Demiguise into America, with the goal of manufacturing Invisibility cloaks. The Demiguise escaped while on board the ship and bred with a stowaway ghoul, and the offspring escaped into the forests of Massachusetts. As a result of their DEMIGUISE ancestry, they are able to turn invisible, though they prefer to use their ability to contort and warp their shape like rubber, such that they can hide behind almost any object (hence the name). Those few who have glimpsed a Hidebehind describe them as a bipedal bear-like creature with fine silver hair.

Hidebehinds are highly intelligent, but harbour a deep hatred and resentment for humankind, probably due to a genetic memory of the cruel circumstances that led to their creation. They will use their abilities to sneak up on unwary humanoids, knock them unconscious and then feast upon them.

BLAST-ENDED SKREWT

MoM Rating: IV (Non-sapient Monstrosity)

The first clutch of Blast-Ended Skrewts was hatched by RUBEUS HAGRID in 1994 from an illegal interspecies mixing of MANTICORES and FIRE-CRABS.

The result was a set of horrifying infants which resembled 3ft long deformed, shell-less lobsters, mixed with a scorpion. As they mature, they grow up to 10ft in length, and develop a highly resistant (and equally disgusting) carapace which reflects almost all magical effects.

The males of the species possess wicked scorpion-like tails filled with a deadly venom, whilst the females have suckers they use to drain the blood of their victims. All adult members of the species were capable of generating immense blasts of fire from their rear end – either used as a propulsion system, or as an offensive weapon.

Due to Hagrid's well documented and extreme negligence, a number of Blast-Ended Skrewts were able to escape into the FORBIDDEN FOREST, and have begun breeding. Recent attempts to quell the infestation were unsuccessful.

ELECTRIC ELEMENTAL

Within the ELEMENTAL PLANES there can be found a single, enormous mountain, surrounded at all times by a roiling, black cloud filled with crackling energy: THUNDERTOP. Lightning and thunder are everpresent in this hostile environment, and every surface is highly charged with static electricity – the foolish explorer who sets foot on the mountain of thunder without some rubber-soled boots is liable to have a very bad time.

Within the crackling chaos and the booming crashes of this formidable environment, reside a number of creatures who have learned to harness, channel and consume electrical energy, using it for their own end - ELECTRIC ELEMENTALS.

RAIJU

MoM Rating: III (Non-sapient Elemental)

Appearing as perfectly normal (albeit electric blue) dogs, Raiju do not seem to be magical upon first glance. However, when angered, electrical energy arcs from every surface of their body, and their growl shakes the ground like distant thunder.

After an ambitious magical experiment went awry in 15th century Japan, a number of Raiju were stranded in this realm and promptly began to multiply – they are now considered relatively common, and many Japanese witches and wizards have been known to train them as guard dogs and family pets.

NEPHELAI

MoM Rating: V (Non-sapient Elemental)

When one gazes upon the tumultuous, churning, sparking clouds of THUNDERTOP, it is easy to imagine that you are witnessing some immense, living creature. This is not as far wrong as you might wish. The Nephelai are spirits of energy and thunder, their physical form (if you can really call it 'physical') composed of violent, turbulent stormclouds, bent into the twisted form of a humanoid. As spirits of the storm, they are almost mindless in their destructive wrath, though they are neither cruel or evil.

Wielding the ability to generate immense bolts of lightning, and twist their near-incorporeal form into near any shape imaginable, the Nephelai are agents of immense chaos when they escape from their natural habitat.

GIANTKIN

Though the TRUE GIANTS are the most prolific of the various GIANTKIN around, enough to establish themselves as an independent society, there are other related creatures scattered around in isolated pockets across the globe. Through various infighting and wars with external aggressors, their populations have been depleted enough that they are almost constantly nearing the edge of extinction, and most have reverted to a nomadic existence, with small groups and families searching for a safe place to call home.

CYCLOPES

MoM Rating: V (Sapient Gigantoid)

The distinguishing factor of Cyclopes in muggle mythology and popular culture is their single, central eye, beyond which they differ only very slightly from their True-Giant cousins, and remain dumb and brutish.

Whilst the single, central eye is indeed true, the Cyclopes are fearsomely intelligent, and genius crafters, being experts in the manipulation and generation of electric currents. Of all the magical creatures in existence, only the Cyclopes have kept pace with (and often exceeded) muggles in their technological prowess.

In aeons past, they were said to manufacture mighty magical weapons for mythical warriors, capable of bringing down the very gods themselves. Nowadays, a cyclops is most likely to be found alone in lightning-ravaged mountaintop abodes, designing traps and defenses to keep their foes at bay.

Whilst many of the TRUE GIANTS have been pushed northwards by the expansion of muggle civilisation, the Jotun's have pushed this to the extreme, and have survived in the frigid climate of the most Northern and Southern parts of the globe. Their gigantoid resilience has allowed them to adapt to this inhospitable climate, and they have become rugged survivors.

HUMBABA

MoM Rating: VI (Sapient Gigantoid)

When the giantkin began their exodus from the rest of Giant society, some fled deep underground, into the myriad network of lava tunnels and magma pools that lie underground. Deep in the bones of the Earth, they studied ancient necromancy, and harnessed the grotesque abominations they found squirming in the darkness.

Centuries of living with this corrupting influence has warped the Humbaba into the most monstrous of the Giantkin. Driven almost entirely mad by the sulphurous fumes and the wailing of their slaves, Humbaba live only to further their own power, enslave those weaker than them, and exert their insane dominance over others.

Thankfully, history records only one incident of a Humbaba breaking free of their self-imposed prison, in around 1000BCE. Surprisingly, this foul creature was slain by a great muggle hero-king.

Now found only in scattered pockets in the most isolated forests in the world, the Basajaun are a peaceful and kindly race of Giantkin, who have taken the forests and woodlands as their hiding place.

Acting as guardians of the forests, they are devoted to the protection and nurturing of wildlife and the plants that they hold dear. A single Basajaun often personally attends to thousands upon thousands of acres of woodland, and will often know the names of all the creatures who reside there.

Their fur-covered appearance, lack of aggression, short stature (for giants) and general kindness has meant that Basajaun are rarely hunted or even feared by humans. Muggles have developed all sorts of strange myths around the Basajaun, giving them the name 'Bigfoot', though wizards have puzzled over the fact that their feet are not particularly large or out of proportion to their bodies.

LIGHT ELEMENTAL

The RADIANT GARDENS are one of the realms beyond our own which resonates strongly with one of the primal magical elements – in this case the element of LIGHT. The beings native to this particular corner of the multiverse are therefore known as LIGHT ELEMENTALS.

The RADIANT GARDENS are an almost heaven-like domain, filled at all times with a diffuse, golden glow, interspersed with rainbows containing more colours than the human mind can conceive of. LIGHT ELEMENTALS, having formed from this incandescent space, are all therefore naturally able to manipulate and channel radiance in all its forms, and abhor darkness and shadows.

Just as no two rainbows are perfectly alike, so too are LIGHT ELEMENTS unique and distinct creatures, with wildly varying morphology and characteristics – some appear as perfectly normal solid creatures, whilst others seem to be made up of pure, distilled light.

CHALKYDRI

MoM Rating: V (Non-sapient Elemental)

Also known as the 'Heralds of Dawn', these copper-skinned, winged serpent-like creatures were often mistaken for a species of DRAGON throughout history, and it is only recently that their true origins have been determined.

Possessing the face and tail of a crocodile, but the body of a lion and rows upon rows of rainbow-coloured wings (up to 14 pairs on the oldest known specimen), these creatures typically reside within the coronosphere of a sun, or near some other cosmically powerful source of light, descending planetside only for a few hours per year, and even then, they appear only during the first few moments of dawn.

When the sunlight hits their copper-bronze skin, it splits off into a mesmerising rainbow display, and causes their entire body to hum with a resonance like a chorus of angels. Legend holds that it is this song which brings the dawn, rather than the other way around.

Though they do not seem particularly intelligent, and are currently classified as 'beasts' by the MINISTRY, this does not mean that they are savage – in fact, the Chalkydri are often kind and gentle creatures, the few times that they have been recorded as coming into direct conflict with humans it was eventually discovered that the humans were threatening some other life form with extinction, drawing the ire of the Chalkydri.

Part II

The Magical World

3: Hogwarts

HOGWARTS SCHOOL OF WITCHCRAFT AND WIZARDRY is the centre of magical education for the British Isles - all magically-capable students born in the UK or Ireland are automatically enrolled, and are expected to attend.

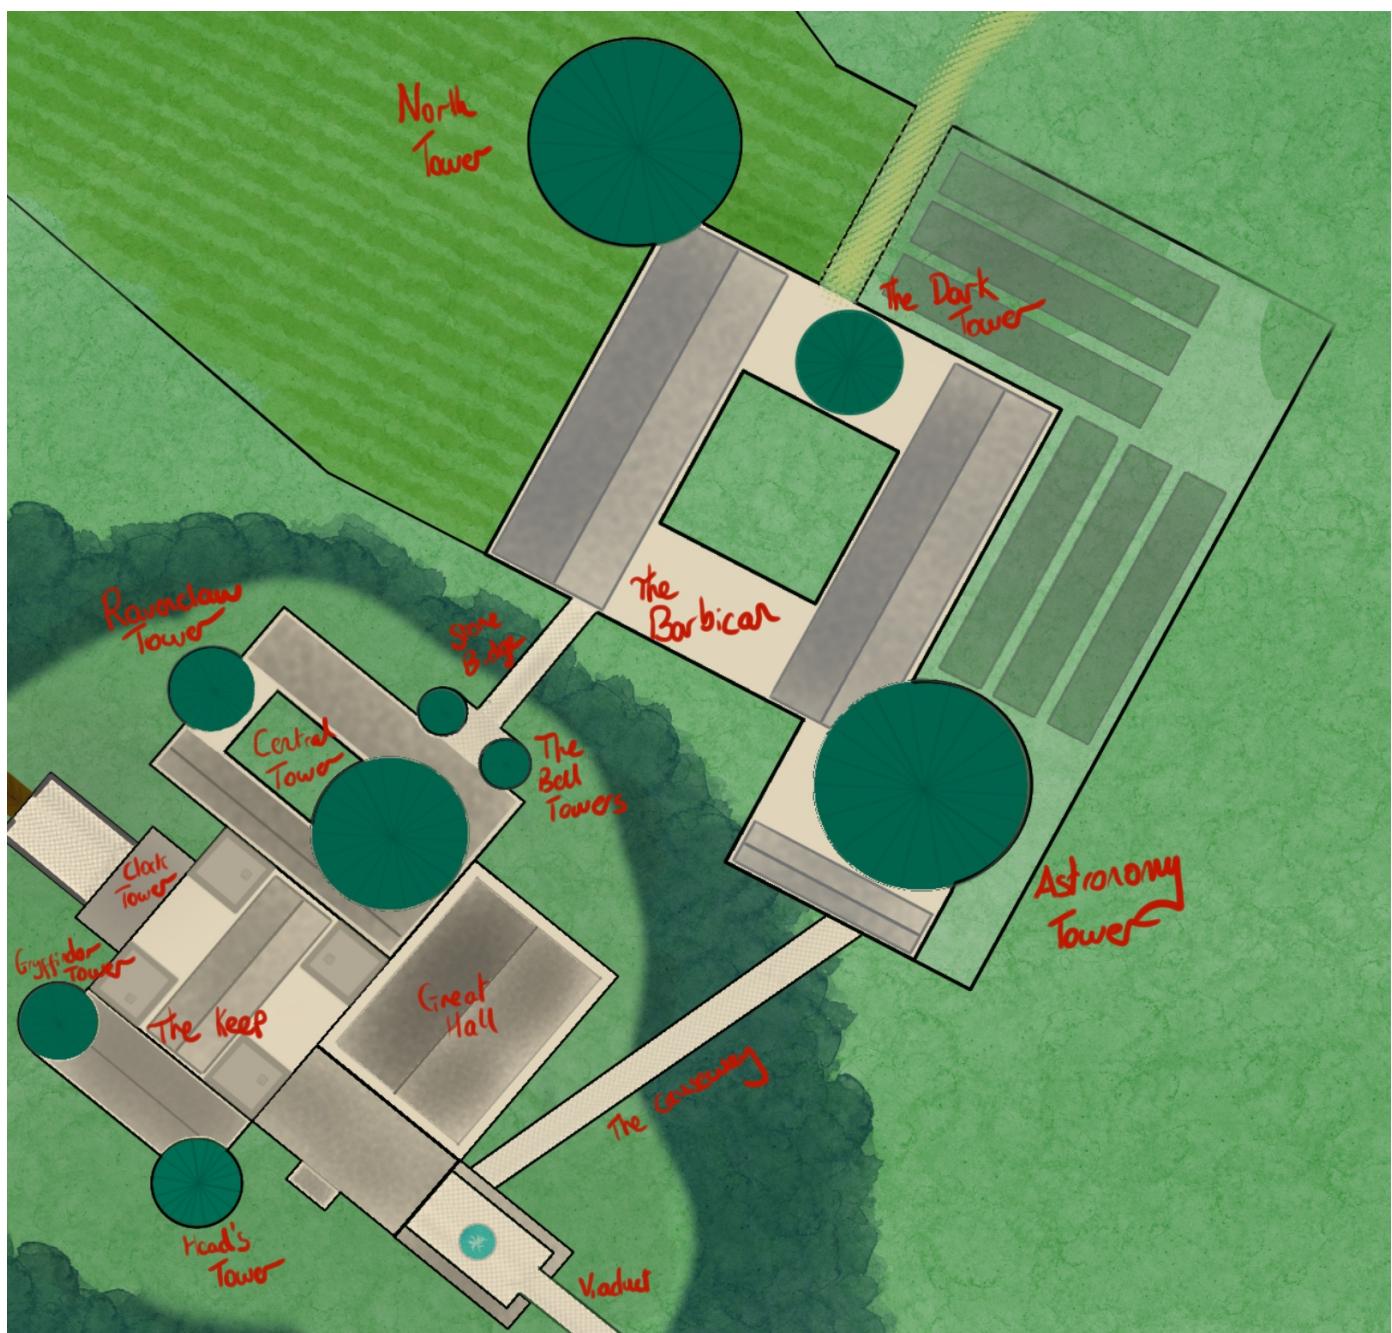

Established in the 10th century by the FOUR FOUNDERS and alliteration aficionados: GODRIC GRYFFINDOR, HELENA HUFFLEPUFF, ROWENA RAVENCLAW and SALAZAR SLYTHERIN, the school is situated in HOGWARTS CASTLE, a purpose-built magical keep surrounded by a mysterious and ancient magical forest. The precise location of HOGWARTS CASTLE is something of a secret - the castle is protected by some of the most powerful defensive charms outside of GRINGOTTS bank - which render it UNPLOTTABLE and unfindable by all but those who deserve to find it.

HOGWART is considered one of the greatest institutions in the magical world, and certainly the finest educational institute - a title long sought after by the other prominent schools: ILVERMORY in the US, BEAUXBATONS in France and DURMSTRANG in North-Eastern Europe.

The castle itself is enormous and labyrinthian - there are hidden rooms, secret passages and magical creatures hiding around every corner, which often leads students into great trouble, great mischief, great adventure - or some combination of all three. The castle lies within expansive grounds - the vast majority of which are occupied by the seemingly endless FORBIDDEN FOREST, which is inhabited by CENTAURS, ACROMANTULA and all manner of magical creatures - there have even been the occasional UNICORNS sighted.

HOGWARTS is a place of endless potential, mystery and adventure, and so is the primary setting for most adventures within the magical world - or at least the place where the adventures start.

Students & School System

For most of HOGWARTS history, it has acted as a SECONDARY SCHOOL, in the parlance of the British Education system - educating students from the age of 11 to 18, through seven years of study. Along the way they study for two major academic milestones - ORDINARY WIZARDING LEVELS (O.W.L.s) and the NASTILY EXHAUSTING WIZARDING TESTS (N.E.W.T.s) which act as the baseline academic qualifications for their further career.

From a RPG perspective, roleplaying as 11 year olds might not be the most appealing prospect - and can certainly limit the kinds of adventures and storylines you can concoct.

In order to provide a world where students can have a bit more self-reliance, independence and danger - without feeling like you're going to be killing pre-teens - the following variant rule can be adopted:

Optional Rule: Higher Education

Following the fallout of the SECOND WIZARDING WAR, the Wizarding World entered into a period of deep introspection, asking themselves how they could prevent another such catastrophe from occurring.

One solution that was floated was to reduce the disparity between the MUGGLE WORLD and the WIZARDING WORLD - rather than separating students from their non-magical peers at 11, they would remain in school with them until the end of the standard muggle education system - at which point (so the theory goes) they would be mature enough to empathise with muggles, and be able to go on to begin their magical education at HOGWARTS with a more rounded understanding of the world around them.

In this scenario, HOGWARTS acts more akin to a Sixth Form or a University rather than a secondary school (and would also help explain why HOGWARTS has no mathematics or english classes - or even sex education - necessary to provide basic life skills).

Of course, this solution has been beset with problems - particularly from some of the more obnoxious PUREBLOOD families, who have either elected to homeschool their children or set up 'muggle schools' populated entirely by wizarding children, in order to avoid the integration efforts that this system was put in place to provide.

Grounds

The GROUNDS consist of all of the land outside of HOGWARTS. The grounds are bounded on two sides by a large stone wall, but the North and Eastern boundaries of the Grounds lie within the FORBIDDEN FOREST - the actual extent of the GROUNDS into the FORBIDDEN FOREST is somewhat murky, and HOGWARTS exerts very little control over anything beyond the first few trees.

QUIDDITCH PITCH

The Quidditch pitch lies to the North-East of the BARBICAN, along the very edge of the FORBIDDEN FOREST. Oval in shape, with three sets of raised, golden hoops at either end, the pitch is surrounded by 4 enormous towers decorated in the colours of the 4 houses, from which spectators watch the aerial game.

THE GREAT LAKE

The GREAT LAKE (also known as the BLACK LAKE) is a very large, fresh-water lake lying within the grounds of HOGWARTS, with the majority of the lake lying between HOGWARTS CASTLE and HOGSMEADE STATION. The main KEEP of HOGWARTS is built on a small island in the BLACK LAKE.

Approximately half a mile across at its widest, the depths of the Lake have mostly been uncharted - primarily out of respect for the colony of MERPEOPLE and the GIANT SQUID which reside in its inky waters.

HERBOLOGY GREENHOUSES

Wrapped around the North-Eastern side of the BARBICAN are a number of long, narrow Greenhouses, containing all manner of plants and plant-like creatures. It is here that students have their practical lessons in HERBOLOGY, learning to care for and cultivate magical plants.

Keep

The KEEP is the largest building at Hogwarts and, besides the various towers, it is also the tallest at a full seven stories tall. The GRAND STAIRCASE spirals up through the centre of the KEEP allowing access to the various floors, which contain a large portion of the teaching rooms.

The KEEP has three major entrances and exits - the CLOCKTOWER COURTYARD, the VIADUCT COURTYARD and the multiple passageways and corridors which lead into the CENTRAL TOWER. Both the KEEP and the CENTRAL TOWER sit upon a small island close to the shore of the GREAT LAKE - access to the rest of the castle and the grounds is ensured through a number of bridges which span the cavernous divides.

Part of the main entrance to HOGWARTS CASTLE, the VIADUCT COURTYARD is the first thing most visitors will see, as it connects the VIADUCT which crosses the GREAT LAKE to the ENTRANCE HALL. The BOATHOUSE, where first year students arrive, is accessed through a steep staircase from this courtyard. The VIADUCT COURTYARD was the site of the final battle between HARRY POTTER and LORD VOLDEMORT.

Gryffindor Tower

GRYFFINDOR TOWER is one of the many towers which juts out from the very top of the KEEP, overlooking the rest of the castle. This tower, as the name suggests, contains the common room and living quarters associated with GRYFFINDOR HOUSE. The only access to the tower is hidden behind a portrait of a 'fat lady' on a corridor on the seventh floor.

GRYFFINDOR COMMON ROOM

Ravenclaw Tower

RAVENCLAW TOWER rises up above the main body of the CENTRAL TOWER (though not as tall as the eponymous tower). The tower houses the living quarters of RAVENCLAW HOUSE, and in keeping with the teachings of RAVENCLAW, the tower can only be accessed by answering a riddle posed by a statue found within the LIBRARY.

Though accessible from the GRAND STAIRCASE in the KEEP, the DUNGEONS sprawl across a much larger region than one might expect, extending a significant distance under the lake.

Headmaster's Tower

This almost impossibly narrow tower protrudes from the southern edge of the KEEP, starting from around the second floor, where entrance is gained behind a statue of a mighty golden griffin. The tower itself is almost entirely comprised of a spiral staircase leading to the top of the tower, where the HEADMASTER'S OFFICE can be found.

HEADMASTER'S OFFICE

4: Cosmology

Though little of it is talked about in the WIZARDING WORLD, for the study of it is highly restricted, and confined almost entirely to the DEPARTMENT OF MYSTERIES (and its various international variants), the universe is not as simple as it might first seem.

It has been speculated for centuries by muggles that there exists aspects of reality that are, in some senses, removed from the world we see around us - be it the mystical kingdom of OLYMPUS, or the divine HEAVEN and torturous HELL of the Abrahamic religions.

The truth, as always, is much more complex - but in general, it turns out that the myths and stories were not too far from the truth.

There do indeed exist multiple realities beyond our own: isolated universes bound by their own magical and physical laws. These 'realities' are known by a number of different names: REALMS, DIMENSION and, most poetically, PLANES OF EXISTENCE.

Upon its creation, one of the primary goals of the DEPARTMENT OF MYSTERIES was the studying and cataloguing of the REALMS beyond our own. The information gained here is what has slowly become COMMON KNOWLEDGE over the course of the past decades.

Traversing the Realms

As the REALMS are completely separate from the physical reality that we are able to perceive, getting there is no mean feat: you cannot simply walk or fly there.

There are, however, places on this planet where the fabric between worlds has worn thin, where dimensions begin to bleed into each other. It is not uncommon for RIFTS to form at these points - rips and tears in the fraying material of reality. Entering into these Rifts, though a dangerous and unpredictable endeavour, will cause one to be catapulted across the multiverse, into another REALM.

Such Rifts are, however, incredibly dangerous - they are inherently unstable, liable to opening and closing at a moment's notice, or shifting such that it deposits you a mile up in the air, under the ocean, or into the heart of a mountain. There is also no guarantee that a Rift is traversible in both directions - careless uses of Rifts are therefore prone to leaving the budding interdimensional explorer stranded on the other side.

Powerful mages therefore prefer the use of PORTALS, created through the TRAVERSE spell. Whilst Rifts are naturally occurring and unstable, PORTALS are artificial, magical creations - and therefore much more reliable. However, the creation of a portal - even one that lasts only a microsecond - is an act of great magical power, and therefore not attempted by many witches or wizards.

Some immensely powerful magic users through history have, however, succeeded in this endeavour. There are myths and legends of witches who have travelled across the Void to deal with the Devil, and mages who have delved deep into the ELEMENTAL PLANES to learn powerful new magics. Relics of these journeys can found in the form of a handful ARCHWAYS - permanent, stable PORTALS - dotted across the Earth.

Only a dozen or so of these mysterious objects have ever been discovered. Nobody knows who created them, and they seem to be so ancient as to predate the beginning of the historical record. The magical power and finesse required to open a permanent gateway into another dimension (without ripping the universe into itty-bitty pieces) are so immense that it seems unlikely that any human mage is responsible. The only ARCHWAY to have been studied extensively lies within the DEPARTMENT OF MYSTERY itself (and was in fact the reason for the founding of the MINISTRY at that location.)

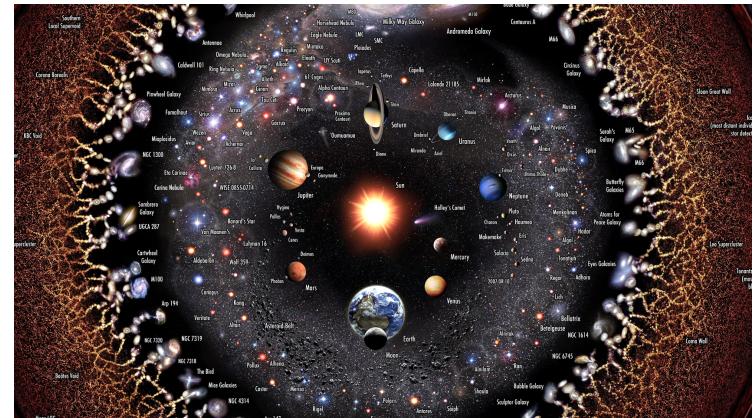

This mysterious artefact is known as the VEIL, and seems to be a ARCHWAY leading into HADES, the REALM of death and decay. Why anyone would go to such effort to establish a permanent pathway to such an awful place remains unclear.

Cataloguing the Realms

Though infamously reluctant to share their secrets, the UNSPEAKABLES have slowly begun to reveal their understanding of the cosmos, and the REALMS that lie within it. Broadly speaking, they have been able to identify

1. The MORTAL WORLD
2. The ASTRAL PLANE
3. The VOIDIC CONTINUUM
4. The LOWER PLANES
5. The HIGHER PLANES

The Mortal World

The Mortal World is the universe that we see around us. It contains every star in the sky, every blade of grass beneath your feet, and is seemingly infinite in extent.

Events in this World follow well-established rules, what the Muggles call 'the laws of physics' - though the discerning mage knows that these 'laws' may be tweaked somewhat by the use of magic.

Most Sapient beings go their entire life without knowing that there is anything besides the Mortal World in existence.

The Astral Realm

The ASTRAL REALM is probably the plane that lies closest to the MORTAL WORLD, and is often imagined by those who study it as a blanket, lying over the top of the MORTAL REALM.

This REALM is one of pure consciousness - thought and imagination hold sway here, rather than rigid laws and rules. Visually, the ASTRAL REALM looks like a translucent mimicry of the mortal realm, filled with drifting mist, thick fog and ghostlike figures.

Every point in the Mortal World has a corresponding point in the ASTRAL REALM, and every building, plant and person has their own reflection in this most mysterious of mirrors. These reflections are not of the object's physical form, but instead of the spirit and intent of the place - the fortress of an evil tyrant may appear as a cancerous and evil tree, whilst a hospital may appear as a radiant glade, suffused with peaceful energy.

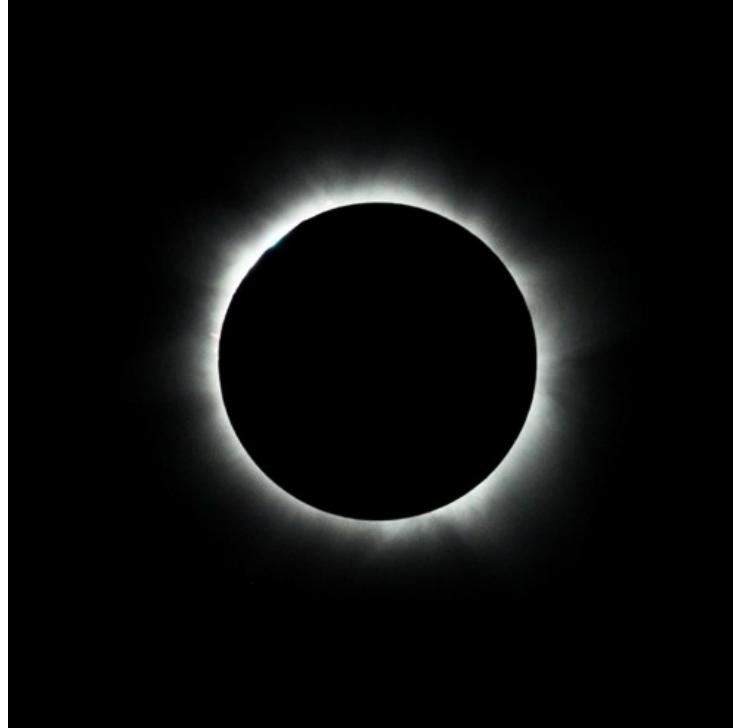

Despite the apparent similarities to our own world, the rules which govern space and time do not apply to the ASTRAL REALM, instead bending to the strongest will around. Travelling through this realm, therefore, is as simple as believing strongly enough that you are going somewhere, and you will surely find yourself heading (more or less) in the right direction, floating like a ghost through the wisps and the clouds.

Beware, however: unless your mind is clear and your will is true, paths taken through the ASTRAL REALM tend to have a habit of not ending up where you expected them to. Many an explorer has walked in circles for days, despite always walking in a perfectly straight line.

In this tumultuous REALM of thought and ideas, the Past, present and future coexist all at once. It is from the ASTRAL REALM, therefore, that seers are able to glean information about the future - peering into the ASTRAL REALM, and imposing your will upon it, allows you to see beyond the paltry concerns of time and space.

It is also speculated that when a wizard apparates, they actually briefly enter into the astral realm, traverse a path that either takes no time at all, or perhaps has no length at all (or maybe both?), and then exit again, finding themselves to have instantaneously transported.

Voidic Continuum

It is perhaps best not to think of the VOIDIC CONTINUUM as a REALM (some would argue that it is best not to think of it at all).

Instead, it is the infinite, multidimensional, incomprehensible 'space' in which every other REALM moves. Like the interstellar expanse of nothingness in which stars and galaxies move, the VOID is the sea upon which the REALMS float; tiny, insignificant pinpricks of light on a vast ocean of emptiness.

If you have found yourself in the VOIDIC CONTINUUM, you have surely lost your way. Stepping outside the normal notions of reality, time and space is not for the faint of heart.

The Void is empty. Not 'empty' in the sense that a box can be empty, nor in the sense that intergalactic space can be empty. Compared to the CONTINUUM, those things are filled with life, teeming with energy.

The Void is absence, the total lack of everything: time, space, energy and matter all have no meaning here.

The Void is the opposite of reality, the negation of existence. So empty it is impossible to move within it, and so dark that no light can propagate. Even if you entered this domain with an ally, you would not be able to see them, feel them or even perceive their existence.

Despite this, there are whispers of creatures which have made their home here in the VOIDIC CONTINUUM, at the far reaches of the darkness, beyond even the HIGHER PLANES. Either having fled here from the justice of the HEAVENS or the wrath of the HELLS and subsequently driven insane, or simply having always existed there since the dawn of existence. These entities have become (or were always) twisted, awful creatures of supreme cosmic horror, and are often referred to (in hushed tones) as ELDRITCH HORRORS.

The ELDRITCH HORRORS are entities beyond human comprehension, and go by many names: the CHAOS GODS, THE GREAT OLD ONES, DEVOURER OF STARS, HARBINGERS OF APOCALYPSE to name but a few. They are not inherently evil, and are in fact so utterly alien that the concept of good and evil is barely applicable to beings of such cosmic power. They are instead the VOIDIC CONTINUUM rendered incarnate: the antithesis of everything we consider to be true of living beings.

Those who have attempted to study the Void and the ELDRITCH HORRORS have generally gone mad within a matter of hours. It is something best left avoided.

The Lower Planes

The LOWER PLANES is the collective name given to the REALMS which lie beyond the ASTRAL REALM, but which can be easily accessed from the MORTAL WORLD.

If the REALMS are thought of as like stars floating in space, the LOWER REALMS are simply those that are close enough to see from Earth, whilst the HIGHER PLANES are so far distant that they cannot be seen.

There are dozens, even hundreds of LOWER PLANES. Some are as large as our universe, encompassing stars and galaxies, whilst others encompass only a small planet, or (in extreme cases) a single room. Some, like the ASTRAL REALM, are mimics of the MORTAL REALM, whilst others are entirely separate: unique and alien.

Many of the REALMS within the LOWER PLANES find themselves dedicated to some elemental or conceptual concept familiar to us on Earth - whether it be VULCAN, a plane dominated by fire and combustion, or SCHOLOMANCIA, a library-like domain containing all knowledge ever discovered.

The LOWER PLANES can therefore be categorised into the following groups:

- THE HEAVENS: Pleasant and beautiful realms embodying concepts such as peace, harmony, honour and bravery
- THE HELLS: Terrible landscapes filled with gruesome death, torture, war and terror.

- THE PRIMAL EXPANSE: A number of closely-linked planes dominated by basic, elemental concepts such as fire, and water, life and death
- THE DAEDAL DOMAINS: REALMS dedicated to and dominated by complexity, structure and nuance. Complex, multifaceted ideas are represented within the DEADAL DOMAINS.

A list of the charted LOWER PLANES can be found later on in this chapter.

The Higher Planes

There appears to be no meaningful, categorical distinction between the LOWER PLANES and the HIGHER PLANES, besides the fact that the HIGHER PLANES are not known to form Rifts within the MORTAL REALM, and nobody has yet established a PORTAL to them either.

The only way to travel to these REALMS is therefore by taking a detour to another REALM, and hoping that you have come somewhat 'closer' to your ultimate destination. Some of the HIGHER PLANES require multiple hops to reach, they are so distant from the MORTAL REALM.

As one gets further away from home, it seems that the concepts and abstract ideals that each realm presents becomes more unusual, more alien - if even detectable. Some of the HIGHER PLANES might seem as near-identical copies of the MORTAL REALM, themselves surrounded by their own copies of INNER REALMS. Others might embody concepts that are completely alien to human minds that it is impossible to work out what is going on - defying categorisation or study.

The further that one travels in this fashion, the more strange and alien that the world will become - until the beings that you encounter are every bit as terrible and unknowable as the gibbering ELDritch HORRORS.

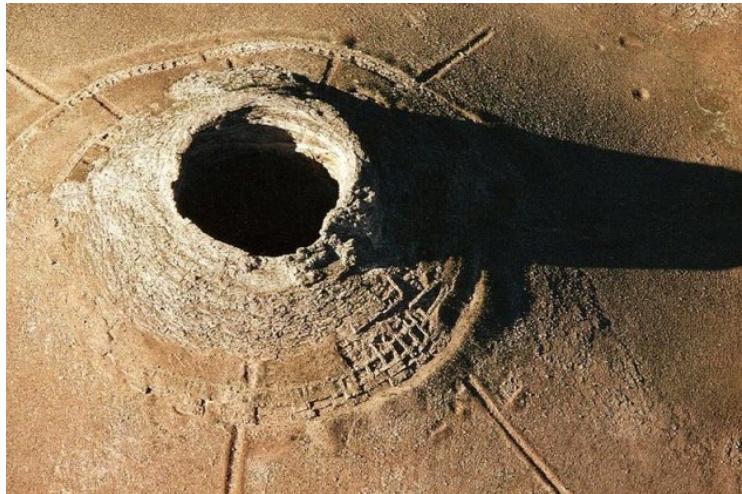

5: The Charted Worlds

Exploratory and scientific expeditions to study the LOWER PLANES have been incredibly limited in their scope (and indeed - entirely limited to the LOWER PLANES, rather than their distant HIGHER companions).

The HELLS

ABYSS

The UNENDING PIT of Terror

Upon first entering ABYSS, one invariably finds oneself alone amidst a vast, sun-scorched desert under a ever-present black sun.

The desert is utterly flat, featureless and without shade or respite from the heat, with only one feature evident: a vast, circular sinkhole, miles and miles in diameter and so deep it seems to have no end. Creatures of nightmare and shadow stalk the endless desert, attempting capture wayward souls, and drag them back into this pit of despair.

Upon reaching the lip of the pit from which Abyss takes its name, you may peer down to see thousands - millions - of doors etched into the rockface, with spiralling staircases creeping around the edge and spindly walkways and bridges spanning miles-long distances across the hellish chasm. Endless, terrified, soul-wrenching screams echo helplessly across the vast expanse.

Each door bears a single name inscribed upon it, in a language non can read, but all can understand, and which sends chills down your spine and sets terror deep into your bones.

For this is the true nature of Abyss, the Realm of Terror and Fear: behind every door lies a room containing the True Fear of the poor soul named upon the door. Be it an infinite maze, a posse of evil clowns, or an ocean populated by bloodthirsty sharks - if you are unlucky enough to enter the door containing your own name, you suffer a TERROR so deep that you cannot escape, and you are forced to relive your nightmares again and again.

If you somehow manage to conquer your fears and escape, or your allies are able to rescue you, a legion of nightmarish shadows will emerge and pursue you, doing everything in their power to drag you back into your Room, to suffer in eternity.

HADES

The NECROTIC TORMENT of the Dead and Undying

ALBUS DUMBLEDORE, in his final set of writings, was insistent that death should not be seen as a negative thing - just a part of the 'next great adventure'. It would seem natural, therefore, that the REALM of Death should be located upon the PRIMAL EXPANSE, those who have been to HADES, however, would have to disagree.

HADES does not merely embody the passing of life: instead it is the realm of gruesome, pointless and violent death. It is also the source of the necrotic energy which animates UNDEAD atrocities across the multiverse.

Like the ASTRAL PLANE, HADES appears as a mimicry of the MORTAL WORLD, albeit with a few alterations. The landscape is dotted with bomb-craters, bubonic plague pits, collapsed buildings and nuclear winter. Every single grotesque form of death is represented, somehow, in the environment, in a violent, deadly parody of the living world. Sites of large amounts of violent death within the MORTAL REALM - such as battlefields or natural disasters - are hotspots of powerful necrotic energies.

Populated entirely by ghostly apparitions, gruesome echoes of the living. No one is quite sure what causes a soul to be left in HADES, rather than 'passing on', though there has been speculation that some souls fear DEATH to such a great extent that they attempt to hold on to the MORTAL REALM. Those lucky few who succeed are the ghosts that wizardkind are aware of - the vast majority of souls, however, fail to hold on, and are instead left stranded in HADES. It has also been suggested that souls snared by DEMONIC entities find their way to HADES as well.

The living cannot spend much time in Hades, as the aura of death and decay seeps into their bones, and seeks to turn them into one of the ghouls that haunts its shattered landscape.

TARTARUS

The TWISTED MAZE of Torture and Pain

The home of beings that truly enjoy causing pain on other living beings, Tartarus is perhaps the most unpleasant plane for a mortal to visit.

Tartarus appears as a neverending maze, with corridors dripping with blood and skeletons of previous victims. The demonic residents of Tartarus move freely through the walls, hunting their prey. If they catch their them, they torture their victims for as long as possible. Advancement through their terrifying society is achieved by inventive new torture methods, particularly excruciating torture, or for keeping a victim alive longer than expected.

If you find yourself in Tartarus, the general advice is to leave as quickly as possible.

The HEAVENS

ELYSIUM

The SILVER CITY of Infinite Blessings

ELYSIUM is as close to the Christian HEAVEN as has yet been discovered. A beautiful, verdant and agrarian paradise of rolling green hills, fields of flowers in bloom, and orchards overflowing with bountiful harvest.

The weather is always perfect - never too hot, and never too cold, and the air is suffused with a dreamy scent which evokes feelings of comfort and love. Positive energy and magic surges within you, making you feel like you can accomplish anything you set your mind to, and whilst you remain in ELYSIUM, you will be the recipient of unusually good luck (unless, of course, some bad luck would bring you joy and happiness).

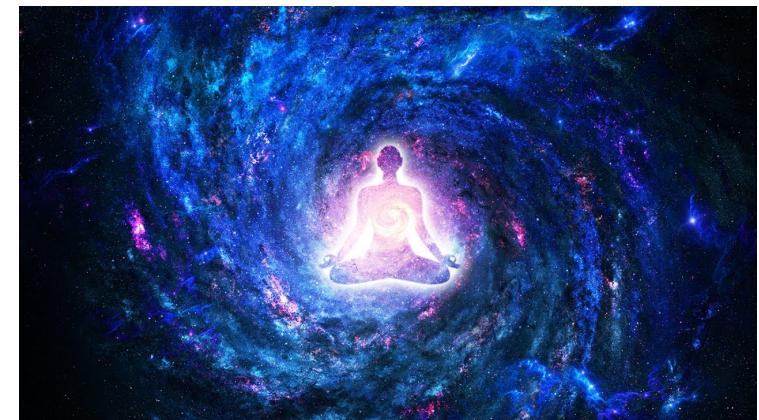

Far in the distance, immense yet seemingly not impacting the surrounding environment, lies the SILVER CITY, the home of the ANGELS, powerful CELESTIAL creatures which quest across the REALMS to further the goals of the good, and to vanquish those who would perform evil deeds.

The city itself is constructed out of gleaming silver and shining marble, and glows and sparkles like a second sun. The streets are clean and hum with positive energy, and walking through the city takes you past cosy libraries containing the knowledge of ages, relaxing verandas containing the most exquisite views in all reality, aqueducts bearing sweet, crystal-clear water, statues carved out of solid diamond, paintings composed out of solid light, and simple street performers enacting feats of magic never seen before on earth.

The city itself seems to be infinite in size (despite taking only a few minutes to walk the perimeter), and though it is almost impossible to get lost, it is also impossible to explore it in its entirety. As such, no one has been able to determine who rules the SILVER CITY, and despite the clearly hierarchical nature of ANGELIC society, who or what is giving out orders remains undertermined.

NIRVANA

The BLISSFUL PEACE of Enlightenment

Nirvana is an alien landscape to those who first arrive – it is seemingly and endless white expanse, with no up or down, and no floor. Individuals move simply by willing themselves in a certain direction. The entire domain is suffused with an aura of complete contentment. All desire and anger are stripped from your body, leaving you completely at peace with your place in the universe.

Those who spend time in Nirvana, however, claim that the whiteness is not perfectly uniform, and that they can see shapes within it. After a significant time, individuals believe that they can make out entire cities, floating in the endless expanse. Eventually, they themselves begin to merge into the whiteness, until they are one with Nirvana. Even if they leave before this happens, so much of Nirvana has infused into their bones that they are incapable of aggression or violence.

When it was first discovered, Nirvana was proposed as a humane alternative to the wizarding prison of Azkaban, as it removed the threat of further violence completely. However, a combination of a desire for punishment and the question mark of what exactly happens when they merge with Nirvana meant that Azkaban was retained.

The DAEDAL DOMAINS

On the MORTAL REALM, we are used (even if not in these terms) to the increase in ENTROPY over time: things tend towards chaos, unless something intervenes to prevent this progress (something which is taken to its extreme on the PRIMAL EXPANSE). The DAEDAL DOMAINS, however, do not suffer this particular affliction: order, complexity and nuance are the natural state of being here.

A book, if left alone on a DAEDAL DOMAIN, will not decay or degrade, its facts will not slowly become dated or wrong - instead its spine might slowly heal from the damage it has suffered, new pages, containing previously unknown information might slowly develop over decades. So too will an empty field slowly become organised, cities and towns springing up out of nothingness - naturally becoming more advanced and complex as time passes.

MACHINA

The CLOCKWORK CITY of Order

In Machina, everything is always in its correct place, for Machina is the Plane of Order, where chaos and randomness are abhorred and reviled. Over the millenia, the denizens of Machina have constructed enormous machines that enable them to control every aspect of reality down to the microsecond. The sun always rises at the same time every day, every coin toss lands on the same side, and the same events occur every single day.

Fearing the chaos inherent in biological systems, the denizens of Machina have also gradually replaced their organic components, until they are almost entirely mechanical in nature. The great cities that dot the moulded landscape – tracing out perfectly tesselating grids – are split into three sectors, depending on the modifications that the denizens have made to their bodies, and hence their preferred method of keeping order: clockwork, electronics and magic.

It is said that the first wizard to create a Golem learned the technique from the inhabitants of Machina.

SCHOLOMANCIA

The PERPETUAL LIBRARY of Endless, Hidden Knowledge

SCHOLOMANCIA is probably the smallest of the main LOWER PLANES, consisting as it does of a single wood-panelled reading room about 15 metres by 25 metres in size, lined with bookshelves stocked with ancient tomes. Comfortable leather furniture dots the rest of the room, which has a single inhabitant; the LIBRARIAN.

It is rumoured that, despite its small size, the bookshelves in Scholomancia contain every book ever written (and some that weren't), and that the four small walls of SCHOLOMANCIA contain a true and accurate record of every event across the multiverse. Of course, this makes actually finding the book you need something of a challenge - especially as most of the books are written in ancient and forgotten languages. Many a scholar has spent their entire life searching a single shelf on SCHOLOMANCIA.

If one is willing to make a deal with the LIBRARIAN, however, this enigmatic figure will trade secrets and information - if it is judged to be of sufficient worth - for access to the knowledge you seek.

It is intriguing, therefore, that the only information which apparently cannot be found within the tomes of SCHOLOMANCIA regards the nature and origin of its guardian - no one seems to know (and no one seems to have ever known) who or what this mysterious entity is. Of the scant few conflicting tales and rumours that can be found about the LIBRARIAN they all agree on one thing: you should not remove a book from the library.

The PRIMAL EXPANSE

Unlike the other LOWER PLANES, the realms found within the PRIMAL EXPANSE are not entirely separated and isolated.

Whether it be the formation of enormous, centuries-old rifts between the planes, or simply the nature of this primal, elemental space: there are large swathes of the REALMS which bleed into one another, and the ambitious traveller could find themselves tunneling through a volcanic seam within GAIA, and find themselves popping out of a magma flow in VULCAN.

Though the PRIMAL EXPANSE is dominated by base concepts such as the natural elements, chaos, life and death - there do exist sapient life, people and even entire civilisations which have evolved there, or made their home in these strange lands. Unlike the DAEDAL DOMAINS, however, the natural state of these realms is one of chaos, disorder and basic existence, and so these civilisations must live their lives ensuring that they do not slip back into this chaos.

A city left abandoned on the MORTAL REALM might slowly degrade over centuries - whilst a city on the PRIMAL EXPANSE might suffer the same fate in only a matter of days, being engulfed in flames or swallowed by the Earth.

AEOLUS

The SWIRLING EDDIES of Skies and Storms

A plane of infinite expanse, filled with swirling air, floating clouds and drifting chunks of earth, AEOLUS is the REALM associated with the element of Air.

There is no solid ground to be found in AEOLUS, the civilisations found within are built upon the floating mountains that dot the skyscape, or perhaps carved out of condensed and harness cloud. These civilisations live a nomadic life as they drift through the endless sky, never fixed in one place.

Current-charts, which map the airflow and allow you to plot a route through the sky, are the most valued currency in this domain, as are Storm-warnings, for the skies of AEOLUS are often split apart by vicious storms that can last a century or more.

AEOLUS is home to powerful wind-mages, who can calm the skies with a word, or whip up a brisk wind with a wave of their hand. It is said that it was from a lost and stranded wind-mage that humans first learned vente, the Gust spell, allowing them to harness the element of air for themselves.

EDEN

The GARDEN of the CIRCLE of Life and Death

A perfect, druidic paradise, EDEN is a single, enormous garden, stretching across hundreds upon hundreds of miles, covering a patchwork of open fields, dense forests, frosted tundra and parched desert. Every single species of plant and animal life which has ever evolved across the multiverse can be found living in perfect balance in EDEN, plant and fungus, hunter and prey – the CIRCLE OF LIFE made manifest, for all of eternity.

No artificial structure can be built in Eden (even attempting do so is almost impossible, and if you do succeed, a dinosaur will inevitably wander by and crush it with their tail) so no true civilisations are found within. The denizens of this realm – known as the GARDENERS, a mishmash of species who have found their home here – are instead nomadic: tending to the wildlife, curing the sick and resolving conflicts between various beasts and plants, holding the CIRCLE to be holy and paramount. In return for their aid, the flora and fauna of this realm reward their caretakers willingly with fruit and wool, shelter and sustenance.

Though it might seem idyllic, remember that death is also a part of the CYCLE. Powerful predators, from the present and past of every REALM stalk the lands, plants exude potent toxins and fungal spores can suffocate your lungs.

HYPERBOREA

The FROZEN EXPANSE of Ice and Snow

A land of endless glaciers and towering crystal-clear castles, Hyperborea is the Elemental Plane of Ice. Due to the freezing temperatures, the Hyperborean species tend to be much larger than their counterparts in other dimensions, to best preserve the heat. They also tend to be fiercely tribal – gathering together for warmth, but deeply fearful of outsiders.

The landscape of Hyperborea is sporadic, with vast featureless plains, interspersed with enormous mountain ranges, and fields of icebergs floating on highly-salted oceans.

VULCAN

The BURNING WILDERNESS of Fire and Ash

Visually, Vulcan most resembles typical depictions of the Christian Hell, with enormous pools of lava, gouts of fire twenty feet high, and patrolled by demons with pools of flame for eyes. However, this domain is simply the Plane associated with Elemental Fire, not with righteous torture of the evil.

Outside of the volcano-top castles and their pools of lava, the land is covered in a fertile ash, and populated by ruby-red trees that can only distribute their seeds when the tree is consumed by fire. Diverse species of dragon, from tiny lizard-like creatures to formidable goliaths patrol the skys. The fire of this realm serves not simply to destroy, but to cleanse and refresh and as such, though Vulcan is quite alien to us mortals, it has been home to several thriving and prosperous civilisations.

6: Roll Statistics

In this chapter I provide a statistical breakdown of the likelihood of certain rolls. This is only for the über keen GM who wants to take a peek behind the metaphorical curtain.

Analytic Probability

The success of an action is determined by rolling a dice pool of N dice (accumulated from Attributes, Abilities, Affinities and various bonuses). Each of these dice is then compared to a target number, the DV. Every dice which exceeds the DV counts as a success, whilst every dice within the 'catastrophe range' subtracts from the number of successes.

The total number of successes is therefore determined by the number of dice which exceed the DV and those which fall into the catastrophe range. The rules ensure that the DV and the catastrophe range can never overlap, so we may always assume these to be mutually independent possibilities.

Since the events of 'rolling a success' and 'rolling a catastrophe' are mutually exclusive, success-or-failure events, we may model them with a Binomial distribution. Hence, the probability of rolling n successes from N dice, with a probability p of success is:

$$P(n|N, p) = B(n_s, N, p) = {}^N C_n p^n (1-p)^{N-n}$$

Where ${}^n C_r$ is the usual n -choose- r function:

$${}^n C_r = \frac{n!}{r!(n-r)!}$$

In order to score n_s total successes, we must therefore succeed in rolling $n_s + f$ dice which exceed the DV, and f dice which meet the catastrophe condition.

The probability of rolling a success is determined by the DV and the maximum possible value of the dice, D , assuming a normal numbering between 1 and D . Hence:

$$p(\text{roll} \geq \text{DV} | D\text{-sided dice}) = \frac{D+1-\text{DV}}{D}$$

Hence, the probability of rolling $n_s + f$ dice from our original pool is:

$$P(n_s + f | N, \frac{D+1-\text{DV}}{D}) = B(n_s + f, N, p_s)$$

The probability of rolling f catastrophes depends on p_c , the catastrophe probability and N_c , the remaining dice left to roll that many catastrophes. N_c must simply be the number of dice not already determined to be successes:

$$N_c = N - n_s - f$$

The catastrophe probability is slightly more subtle, a first glance would indicate that it would take the form:

$$p_c \neq \frac{D+1-X}{D}$$

Where X is the maximum end of the catastrophe range (usually equal to 1). However, we must take into account that we already know that the dice in the 'catastrophe pool' cannot exceed the DV, else they would already have been counted. Hence:

$$p_c = \frac{X}{\text{DV}-1}$$

Therefore, the probability of rolling f catastrophes, given an initial pool of N dice, of which $n_s + f$ have already been used is:

$$p(f \text{ catastrophes} | N, n_s + f, \frac{X}{\text{DV}-1}) = B(f, N - n_s - f, p_c)$$

Therefore, the combined probability of doing both things simultaneously is:

This final function, $\Theta(x)$ is the Heaviside step function, it evaluates to zero whenever the argument is less than 0, and ensures that you are never relying on more dice than you actually have. If using a statistics package which evaluates the Binomial function directly, it should include this constraint automatically.

The total probability of getting n_s successes is therefore the sum over all possible combinations of $n_s + f$, giving:

$$p(n_s | N, D, \text{DV}, X) = \sum_{f=0}^{N-n_s} B(n_s + f, N, p_s) \times B(f, N - n_s - f, p_c)$$

The probability of a benign failure is therefore:

$$p(\text{fail}) = p(0 | N, D, \text{DV}, X)$$

Whilst the probability of a Catastrophe is found by summing over all negative values of n_s :

$$p(\text{catastrophe}) = \sum_{n_s=-N}^{-1} p(n_s | N, D, \text{DV}, X)$$
